

About the Author

AS AN INTUITIVE WHO SENSES ENERGY IN A VARIETY of ways, Mariane E. Weigley writes, speaks, teaches, and publishes what it means to be an energy being, a being of light. She writes her story from the soul's perspective—that is, everything is about energy.

She received her BBA in business and education from the University of Wisconsin–Madison in 1973 and earned her JD from Marquette University Law School in 1992. Following her divorce from a twenty-five-year marriage and realizing she “didn’t have a life,” she turned to counseling, meditation, and journaling. This work resulted in a profound shift at the age of fifty-two. As part of her healing process, she began to write—to heal herself and ultimately lay the groundwork for helping others. The result is Abuse & Energy, the first in her series on energy and abuse. Weigley Publications is becoming a hub for information about energy beginning with this focus on abuse.

Mariane was born in southeastern Wisconsin where she lived most of her life. She resides in Northern California.
